Some houses are not just built with stone, wood or plans... they're built with stories. This home was born from the love of a family, a shared dream between two people who, in 2001, bought a piece of land at the foot of the mountains to create their refuge — their home. In 2005, they made that dream come true: a solid, beautiful house full of character, designed to grow, to gather, to enjoy. From the very first step onto the property, it's clear this is no ordinary house. Every corner reflects care, every room radiates harmony. On the ground floor, a semi-finished apartment awaits new ideas: a space for guests, for working from home, or for a grown-up child to take their first step...
